

Townsend's big-eared bat

Townsend's big-eared bats are medium sized bats with large ears and may travel up to 12 miles to feed on moths and mosquitoes. They prefer to roost in open spaces and caves unlike other species that roost in cracks and crevices. Baby bats are known as pups.

Oregon Caves National Monument